

An influx of technology is presenting new avenues of learning for students of all ages, while also promoting collaboration and inclusivity in the classroom. Your team can open new doors to billions of dollars in the Pre K-12 and college markets, as bond-funded and capital projects have been on hold during the pandemic. Construction, technology, safety/ security, and capital projects will be underway in the coming year. Make plans now to connect with educational design professional, leaders, and schools and colleges while gaining exposure and new customers.
